February was Education Month @ Metro

The winter doldrums were erased during the month of February. As many of us were thinking about a secret venue or creative ideas on composition, Metro leaders were scheduling a month of education.

It began with the February 08 date on the PDI review processes, accepted correction of the image, and delivery mechanisms to the web master. This class was attended by ten members.

James Pratt was the February 11th Program Event speaker. He took the flash off the camera and showed us how to get depth to our photos. He used single and double strobe lighting to provide texture, and made our pictures have a 3D effect.

The February 22nd educational class had the Competition Critique Chairperson, Joe Wilson, teach about composition, camera technique, and the Rule of Thirds. From this class of thirty-one; our members are now ready to be judges for the competition Nights. In addition, they learned how to make the normal photo have more "pop". All this being done during the snap of the shutter.

The Annual February Workshop was held on February 23rd. James Pratt was the main speaker and demonstrated by taking the flash of the camera; how to improve their photos. He showed the single strobe, double strobe, and various light modifiers and the effects on their images. He had his daughter, Emily, as a model, plus an antique Dukati motorcycle. After his demonstration, the audience enjoyed pizza and soft drinks. The audience had the opportunity to practice their skills with Emily and the Dukati. In addition, Janet and Bill Steyer had their table top equipment available for the group to practice their skills.

Wayne Hughes, Joe Spence, and Joe Wilson set up their studio equipment, plus had models available for others. Everyone also had the opportunity to ask questions and share knowledge. Ninety-four photographers took advantage of this event.

So the members that were able to take advantage of this educational event(s) are now ready to go to those venues and practice their newly honed skills for the 2008

Competition Events. For those of you that missed out on any or all of these events, and would like to request them to be rescheduled before next year, please send an email to Wayne Srotyr @
