Ray & Robin Siegfried Families Shark Adventure

When you reach the Ray & Robin Siegfried Families Shark Adventure, you'll be surrounded by one of the most unique and impressive shark collections in the world. The walk-through tunnel and dome allows you to see the largest bull sharks in captivity swimming alongside you and even right over your head! Mammoth lemon, sand tiger and nurse sharks round out the exhibit.

Fishes of Oklahoma

Some of the most awe inspiring creatures are swimming in Fishes of Oklahoma, supported by the Oxley Foundation and ONEOK. See a more than 120-year-old alligator snapping turtle state record blue catfish, and 7-foot long gars. You will never look at Oklahoma lakes and rivers again, in the same way after learning what's with swimming with you!

Editor's Note: The Oklahoma Aquarium is air-conditioned and has numerous benches through-out the building. This is a great field trip.

PERFECT 15

PAUL JOHNSON

I think I have rec'd two other 15's (but not this year - this was my first in 2010). I use a Nikon D90, Tamron 18-270VR lens, and Photoshop Elements 7.

All my B&W photos are color photos converted to B&W (no red filter or anything). Coors Falls is the scene on the front of a Coors beer can (this may not be the "official name" for these falls. The falls are located in Yankee Boy Basin near Ouray, CO. Ouray is north of Silverton (which is north of Durango) on the "million dollar highway". I took a number of shots to get the one I wanted (when fluffy clouds are floating around, I frequently wait for the clouds to move and throw different shadow patterns). Most of my Colorado photos are taken from commercial jeep tours I rent in Ouray (my favorite is Switzerland of America Tours www.soajeep.com)

Paul has been a member of Metro Camera Club since 2006.
